BOSTON TEAM WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP

Captures Deciding Game of Series From Pittsburgh.

DINEEN SHUTS OUT PIRATES

Allows Opposing Batsmen But Four Safe Hits—Beaneaters Touch Up Philippe at Will.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Boston won the world's baseball championship yesterday by defeating Pittsburgh in the eighth game of the series and scoring its fifth victory. The score was 3 to 0, Billy Dineen using the whitewash brush on the Pirates for the second time. The demonstration after Dineen struck out Hans Wagner, the last Pirate to face him, was equal to any ever seen on a baseball field. He was as impossible of being fathomed as before, four hits being the sum total wedged in against him, and while two of them were in one inning, the perfect support accorded Dineen would not allow a man to cross the rubber. In another case a free trip was followed by a single. Then Criger's snap throw to Collins caught Leach off third base and ended the inning.

Philippe has been the strong right arm of the Pirates the whole series. All the victories for his side have gone to him, and having had a two-days lay-off it was thought that he would be able to tie the series today, and compel Boston to go the limit.

Philippe Was Easy.

The Deacon was just as easy of solution as he was Saturday in his home town, eight hits being required of him. It was well for the Bostonians that they won. There were many who could not be convinced otherwise than that the games were extended to get gate receipts. The talk would not down and had Boston lost or shown any sign of faltering the shout would have gone up that the contests were not on the level.

Speculators had secured nearly all the grandstand tickets and were demanding $10 to $15 for them. They were badly bitten. The public would not submit to the extortion. The result was that reserved seats could be had for less than $1, the regulation price. When the game began the crowd was a disappointment; instead of the 15,000 looked for, less than half that number was present.

Boston scored twice in the fourth on Freeman's triple and singles by Farris and Ferris. In the sixth a three-bagger by La Chance was followed by Parent's sharp drive, scoring La Chance.

After the game the victors were carried to their dressing-rooms by the jubilant rosters.

The betting was decided. Boston men had to give long odds on the game and 10 to 7 on the series, and even at that Pittsburgh was shy of putting up.

COMPARISON OF GARDNER AND BOB FITZSIMMONS

Dope Figures Grand Old Man as the Winner.

OPPONENT WILL BE BACKED

Lowell Man, as Well as Fitz, Is a Master Ring General, and as Cool as an Iceberg.

The matching of Bob Fitzsimmons and George Gardner has caused the sports at this early date to begin dishing out the pair. Gardner's greatest advantage will be in age. Fitz is at least fifteen years older than Gardner. It is a peculiar fact that both men are of foreign birth. Fitz was born in England. Gardner comes from County Clare, Ireland. The correct measurements of the two men are as follows:

Fitzsimmons.	Gardner.
5 feet 11 1/2 inches height.....	5 feet 10 inches.....
170 pounds.....	165 pounds.....
17 inches.....	18 inches.....
43 inches.....	38 inches.....
48 inches.....	43 inches.....
21 inches.....	28 inches.....
24 inches.....	24 inches.....
15 1/2 inches.....	14 inches.....
15 1/2 inches.....	12 1/2 inches.....
7 1/2 inches.....	7 1/2 inches.....

There is hardly any way to compare Fitz and Gardner and their ring records of the last two years, as both have been fighting in different classes. Gardner for a moment considered a match with Jeffries, while Fitz has faced the champion twice, and on both occasions gave him a hard fight.

Dope Favors Fitz.

At a glance this would dope Bob out a sure winner, but the fight fans will not go on any certain line of figuring, as they will have to look at the match from an entirely different point of view than if Fitz was fighting a big heavy-weight.

Gardner, while not as tricky as Fitz, has many other good points in his favor. He is an awful puncher, a clever ducker, and a veritable iceberg when in the ring. His ring generalship is something remarkable. He never gets in a hurry, but when his opponent comes at him he uses his two hands as a skilled mechanic would his tools, and the execution he does with that pair of mitts is something awful.

The only time Gardner ever gave away any great amount of weight in a fight was to Jack Johnson at San Francisco, and the colored man got the decision after twenty rounds. The men Gardner has been meeting were pretty near his equal in weight.

In his fight with Marvin Hart at Louisville last spring Gardner had to concede about twelve pounds to Hart, and on that occasion he handled himself very cleverly. He fought on the defensive until Hart became tired, and then waded in and slugged right and left.

While Hart looked dangerous Gardner was careful. This was a point in his favor, as it demonstrated quite clearly that he was not a careless chance-taker, but a finished ring general.

Up to Gardner.

So, when Fitz meets the Lowell boy it will be up to Gardner to make the first kind of a fight, as the old fellow is a crafty student of the art, and woe to the youngster who tries to get too gay before him. Fitz has a reputation at stake and will try to finish Gardner early. If the latter can hold his own by the same tactics he did against Marvin Hart he will give Bob a hard fight.

Fitz will undoubtedly be the favorite. He should be, judging by his many great fights, but there are many loyal supporters of the man from Lowell.

KID CARTER BEATEN BY JOE WALCOTT

Negro Knocked Him Down Twice in the First Round and Won Battle on Points.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—After fifteen rounds of the fiercest fighting seen in Boston in many months, Joe Walcott won the decision from "Kid" Carter in their battle before the Criterion Club, in this city last night. The battle from start to finish was fast and furious.

Twice in the first round Walcott landed smashes on the Kid which sent him to the floor, and several times during the fifteen rounds of hard fighting Carter seemed to be on the "go."

He showed great recuperative abilities, however, and came to the bell as fresh as ever and strong.

Despite lack of proper training, due to the death of his wife a week ago, Walcott put up one of the best fights of his fist career.

Nearly six thousand sports, who came from all parts of the United States, saw the men do battle. When the gong sounded for the beginning of the fight the betting was at even money.

Both men seemed to tire badly about the middle of the battle, but recovered quickly. Clinching rested them up a bit. The seventh round saw some hot fighting. In the tenth Walcott landed hard on Carter's jaw, flooring him, and it was the bell that saved Carter in that round. Again in the eleventh Walcott, with a vicious left swing, connected with Carter's jaw and dazed him. Carter was very weak in the knees when the gong sounded. The thirteenth round was all Walcott's.

Walcott reached the jaw of Walcott in the fourteenth, but his blows lacked the steam to do the trick. The fifteenth round was slow and proved that the men were very tired. Walcott tried his best to land a knockout, but Carter had strength enough left in him to block the blows and keep out of harm's way until the gong sounded. The referee immediately gave the fight to Walcott and 6,000 throats cheered until the sides of the building shook. They were satisfied with the best fight that has been seen in Boston in many a day.
